HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE

In 2007, "The Cuyamaca Way" became Cuyamaca College's official motto, a tribute to the institution's prevailing sense of community. Thirteen key words that the campus community decided best describe that "Cuyamaca Way" were inscribed in curving concrete bands stretching across the newly paved quad. The words, "beautiful, collaborative, dedicated, innovative, integrity, teamwork, vision, welcoming, student-centered, community, excellence, passionate, and friendly," became etched in stone.

The declaration of Cuyamaca's distinct attributes harkens back to a time some 40 years prior, when District trustees first selected the name "Cuyamaca College" in envisioning an institution that exemplifies the "community" in the words "community college."

THE HISTORY OF THE CAMPUS

The Cuyamaca College campus is located in the East San Diego County community of Rancho San Diego, nestled in a suburb just outside the city of El Cajon on a verdant 165-acre site that was at one time a part of the Old Monte Vista Ranch. Along with its sister campus, Grossmont College, it is part of the Grossmont-Cuyamaca Community College District.

The name for the college reflects the region's history and heritage. A very old word linked to the land's Native American past, "Cuyamaca" has been interpreted in various ways, including "above rain," "beyond rain" and "place where the rain comes from heavens."

The campus site was acquired by the Board of Trustees in September 1972 and the college officially opened in fall 1978, with 1,947 students and nine associate-degree programs. Its first president was Dr. Wallace F. Cohen. Today, Cuyamaca provides around 192 degrees and certificates, including those in academic and career pathways, to its 13,062 students.

KEY EVENTS

Thirty-eight students made up Cuyamaca College's first graduating class in May 1979. The early '80s saw the construction of facilities housing two highly regarded programs – Automotive Technology and Ornamental Horticulture – and the naming of Dr. Samuel Ciccati as the college's second president.

The following years marked the expansion in earnest of Rancho San Diego and by fall 1988, Cuyamaca's enrollment had reached 3,600 students. The decade of the '80s came to a close with the opening of the Learning Resource Center, a 30,000-square-foot, glass-covered building with a distinctive architecture that has established it as an often-photographed campus icon.

The '90s were highlighted by the opening of the privately-funded Heritage of the Americas Museum, as well as the dedication of a new 20.3-acre physical education facility with a fitness center, gym, tennis and volleyball courts, soccer and ball fields, and an Olympic track. Dr. Sherrill Amador began her tenure as college president in 1994 and a year later, Rancho San Diego Parkway opened as the college's new main entrance, providing better access to the campus. The decade of the '90s ended with the opening of the Water Conservation Garden – a must-visit for all home gardening and landscaping enthusiasts – operated through a Joint Powers Agreement between the college and area water-district agencies.

With the opening of a one-stop Student Services Center, the 21st century got off to a busy start for the college, which also celebrated the unveiling of the Child Development Center. The whimsical facility serves as both a childcare facility for the campus and community, and a learning lab for students in Cuyamaca's Child Development Studies program.

Dr. Geraldine M. Perri took over the reins as college president in 2002, the same year that East County residents approved Prop. R, a $207 million construction bond measure to finance upgrades and new building construction at the District's two colleges.

During a period of rapid enrollment growth, Prop. R transformed the campus into a high-tech learning magnet, bringing older facilities like the automotive technology center into the digital age and adding several state-of-the-art buildings: the Science and Technology Center (now the Science and Mathematics Building), the Student Center, the Business and Technology buildings, and the jewel of the campus, a $45 million Communication Arts Center. There, a well-appointed performing arts theater built to professional acoustical standards has become a major community asset as a high-demand site for community performances, assemblies, business forums and even, worship services.

Prop. R's major construction at Cuyamaca College drew to a close in 2011 with the expansion of the LRC. Other campus highlights during those years included music instructor Pat Setzer's selection as one of four community college instructors statewide to win the 2010 Hayward Award for Excellence in Education, and in 2011, the appointment of Dr. Mark J. Zacovic to the post of college president.

In November 2012, East County voters once again showed their support for the college district with the passage of Prop. V, a $398 million bond measure that paves the way for Cuyamaca and Grossmont colleges to address continuing facility, infrastructure and technology needs.

Also in 2012, Cuyamaca was selected as one of three community colleges in the state to be given the inaugural Energy and Sustainability Award from the California Community College Board of Governors. The college was recognized for its sustainable landscaping initiatives, including a conference that has attracted hundreds of industry professionals annually since 2008.

In 2013, an Intergenerational Garden was established adjacent to the Child Development Center, where senior volunteers affectionately nicknamed "Garden Grannies" helped children plant and harvest vegetables consumed by the center's young wards. This was also the year that the college was first ranked among the nation's "best of the best" veteran-friendly schools by U.S. Veterans Magazine. The college was the only community college in San Diego County to earn the distinction.

Cuyamaca was a repeat winner of the coveted award in 2014. Another highlight that year was a $350,000 clean energy grant from the state to lead a regional effort to train students in the booming clean-energy field.

In October 2015, Dr. Julianna Barnes, who previously served Cuyamaca College as vice president of student services, returned to take the helm as president.

Under her leadership, the college completely transformed its approach to placement and teaching math, English, and ESL. Today, all students are placed in math and English based upon high school transcripts and GPA, not a placement exam. If students require extra support in college-level math and English, it is provided. Cuyamaca College was the first community college in California to embrace this approach and support faculty in this effort.

In January 2019, the college opened the premier water and wastewater training facilities in California. The Center for Water Studies includes classrooms, a water quality analysis laboratory, and state-of-the-art field operations skills yard with above ground water distribution systems and underground wastewater collection system. The program was established in collaboration with the industry and will train the next generation of water professionals.

Cuyamaca College continues its development as a dynamic learning mecca, a unique campus with a strong allegiance to sustainability reflective of its natural beauty. Yesterday, today and tomorrow, the college remains unwavering in its mission to meet the comprehensive educational and workforce training needs of residents in East County and beyond.

ACADEMIC FREEDOM

(BOARD POLICY 4030)

The Grossmont-Cuyamaca College District Governing Board shall promote public understanding and support of academic freedom for the implementation of the educational philosophy of Grossmont-Cuyamaca Community College District Academic freedom is fundamental for the protection of the rights of the instructor in teaching, and of the student to freedom in learning. It carries with it duties correlative with rights.

1. Instructors are entitled to freedom in the classroom in discussing their subject, but they should be careful not to introduce into their teaching material that has no relation to their subject. The intent is not to discourage what is "controversial." Controversy is at the heart of the free academic inquiry that this entire policy is designed to foster. Instructors should avoid persistently intruding material that has no relation to their subject.
2. Instructors are citizens, members of a learned profession, and may be viewed by those outside of the District as representatives of the District. When they speak or write as citizens outside of their roles with the District, they should be free from institutional censorship or discipline, but their special position in the community imposes special obligations. As scholars and instructors, they should remember that the public might judge their profession and Grossmont-Cuyamaca Community College District by their utterances. Hence they should at all times be accurate, should exercise appropriate restraint, should show respect for the opinions of others, and should make every effort to indicate that they are not speaking for the District.

3. As colleagues, faculty members have obligations that derive from the code of ethics (adopted by both the Grossmont College Academic Senate [11/16/92] and the Cuyamaca College Academic Senate [4/6/95]). Faculty members do not discriminate against or harass colleagues and students. They respect and defend the free inquiry of associates. In the exchange of criticism and ideas, faculty members show due respect for the opinions of others. Such exchanges shall focus upon the substance and content rather than personal characteristics of individuals. Uncivil, intemperate, or abusive language and behavior is contrary to a productive and safe working and educational environment. This does not contravene academic freedom and free exchange of ideas and opinions, but requires accuracy, appropriate restraint, and respect for the professional expression of others.
4. Instructors are entitled to full freedom in academic research and publication, subject to the adequate performance of their other academic duties, but research and publication for pecuniary return should be based upon an understanding consistent with the collectively bargained agreement between the District and the exclusive bargaining representatives.
